Farmers' Union Bureau of Information.

Conducted by the South Carolina Farmers' Educational and Co-Operative Union. Communications intended for this department should be addressed to J. C. Stribling, editor, South Carolina.

CUT HIM OFF.

That bright fool that is in your Union who sold his own crop of cotton for future delivery and keeps at it trying to persuade others to do the same ununion act, should be backed up against the business end of his first cousins, the long-eared ass, where he will receive the grand bounce out of the Union and land into some future society that carries its brains in the opposite end from where good Farmers' Union members carry theirs.

Remember this, that a large portion of cotton-growers that are yet outside of the Union, watch the minimum prices set by the Union as close as Union men do, but somehow or other they do not possess the requisite amount of grit, pluck and fairness to come into the Union yet. About the fifth of September you will hear the minimum price on cotton, then leave for it, altogether.

FARMERS, "GET THERE."

Now, let me implore you to go at once to digging and throwing up your fortifications so that you can hold your positions against the onslaught of all the cotton bears on earth.

I mean this as an illustration to show you the importance of sowing a large crop of small grain this fall to fortify yourselves against the possibility of being forced to sell your cotton next year at cotton-bear prices to pay for the stock food that you may raise at home by starting now to do it.

Take a common fertilizer drill or cotton-planter and drill in from two to three rows of oats between cotton rows just behind the cotton-pickers at the first picking. This machine will open out the furrow and put in the seed all at one time going and leave the open furrow in just the ideal condition to stand the winter freeze.

Farmers' Union objects are, first, how to put more business in your farming and, second, how to put more brains in your work.

These principles applied to farming properly will do wonders in the way of making five crops, but your profits just here are in uncertain status if you allow others to name the price for your products. There is in most men a kind of disposition to take all that the other fellow will allow, and the profits in your year's labor have gone to others who have neither spent a day's labor or a dime to produce the crop.

Just here is the strong position of the Farmers' Union whose objects are to combine their interests in a way to control or place a fair price on their own products, and they have been very successful in doing this during the last three years.

This principle is the right thing to do, and so long as we stand by these rules we are going to continue to be successful.

TOO MUCH SPEAKING.

We are in need of a little reform and forethought in these public meetings in two ways. In order to make sure of entertaining the crowd and fencing against an accident by some speaker not showing up we overload the meetings sometimes by about double the number of speakers that is needed, and consequently the people become worn out and disgusted with the whole lot of speakers and the cause for which the people were called together to discuss.

We have known some men to get up and talk one and a half hours repeating about the same thing over and over again, while about half a dozen speakers, and the people, too, are waiting on him to get through.

The remedy for this is to start in time and be sure to get men that know something about the subject to be discussed and above all to know how to condense their ideas and stop at the right place. When you get the right man remember that this man pays his own expenses, and if he is not worth this to you don't get him, but get another man that is worth his fare and you pay it.

TEN YEARS IN BED.

"For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys," writes R. A. Gray, J. P., of Oakville, Ind. It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a God-send to me."

15 Cent Cotton Below Cost of Production

The price of cotton is practically set by the Union again, at less than the cost of production, or for less than it was when it brought 6 cents per pound.

N. B.—Mules are 125 per cent up, labor considering quality 150 per cent up, land 350 per cent up, insurance 50 per cent up, everything else required to grow and gather a cotton crop are about in proportion to the above per cent, and cotton only up 117 per cent. Farmers can't you see that you are still making cotton for less than 6 cents per pound.

Who will be able to stand? I do not hesitate to answer the question. The negro will always stand so long as the white man has anything; the man who works his family even his women folks out in the broiling sun shine and denies them everything save the bare necessities of life. It will not be the man who is in debt for his farm, it will not be the man who feeds, clothes and educates his family like others do, it will not be the farmer who spends his money like a white man and drinks Bourbon whiskey like others do. There are limited exceptions to the above.

Being as money is cheap, why make only cotton cheap with it, the South's only hope? Mr. Union, keep your cotton cheap with money and money will react and then where will you and your Union be?

Talk about John Calvin and John Knox fighting together like the jaws of a wild beast to devour the human family, what is the Cotton Growers' Association and Farmers' Union doing?

Congressman Aiken's Appeal.

Abbeville, S. C., Sep. 7, 1907.

Dear Sir:—Under the ruling of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, rural routes that are not appreciated will be discontinued or changed into tri-weeklies. Appreciation, as defined by that office, means that the people who are served should subscribe to newspapers and increase the volume of business, see that roads are kept in good condition, and PUT UP APPROVED MAIL BOXES.

One of the strongest arguments that has been advanced in favor of the rural service, is that it induces more reading, broadens the individual's knowledge and better fits him as a citizen and as a business man to protect his interests.

The routes serving you are very near the danger line in the matter of mail handled, and it must be increased. Knowing that you fully appreciate the merits of the service, let me urge you to use your influence for its improvement. See your neighbors and have them subscribe for at least one paper. Where they haven't approved boxes urge them to put them up. If sections of your road are in bad condition have a delegation of your citizens to direct the county supervisor's attention to them. A little work properly directed will do wonders for the improvement of your route.

Trusting that I have your heartiest co-operation in this work, I am,

Very truly yours,

WYATT AIKEN.

Orphanage Work Day

Saturday, September the 28th is a day set aside by the Baptists of South Carolina as work day for the Orphanage.

The call goes out to rich and poor, great and small to give the results of this day's labor to the two hundred and one homeless children at Greenwood. The income of one day or the proceeds of one day of labor could be donated to the orphanage and who would miss it?

Even the children are asked to share in this noble work. Let the parents, Sunday school teachers and pastors devise some plan for them to make some money on that day and send it to the little ones who are bereft of their parents.

Contributions need not be confined to money, anything used in a family will be acceptable.

In this work we can be co-workers with God in bringing into the lives of the little ones joy and gladness.

A Baptist.

WHAT A NEW JERSEY EDITOR SAYS. M. T. Lynch, Editor of the Phillipsburg, N. J., Daily Post, writes: "I have used many kinds of medicines for colds and coughs in my family but never anything so good as Foley's Honey and Tar. I cannot say too much in favor of it."
